Incredible Insects: Designs By Christopher Marley Coloring Book

Synopsis

As a child, artist Christopher Marley was afraid of bugs! But now he travels the world to study them, collect them, and arrange them into dazzling works of art. You'll find twenty-two of his insect images in this coloring book. They are shown as small reproductions on the inside front and back covers. You can have fun creating insect art, too, by copying the colors as arranged by Christopher Marley or by using your own favorite colors. Each drawing is accompanied by a question about the insects--the answers are printed upside down on the back of this page. The last page of this book is blank so that you can draw and color your own insect picture. Perhaps it will be one you have seen in your neighborhood or in your school yard. Or it may be a fantastic creature that crawls or flies out of your vivid imagination! Sample page caption 1. These are all beetles except for one that is considered a true bug--can you guess which one it is? (Hint: True bugs, unlike beetles, have no moving mouth parts and therefore cannot bite or chew. They feed through a stiff 'straw' called a proboscis.) Pomegranate's Incredible Insects coloring book features 22 designs based on the stunning original artwork of Christopher Marley. Coloring pages are blank on the back so they can be cut out and displayed.

nice compilation of natural beauty. Book has outlines, good for color or other uses, plus color pages to show what the real color is. As a bonus you get fun little quiz questions.

I gave this to a 5-year-old who opened it up and immediately began coloring. Each page has a question related to the insect (with answers at the beginning of the book).

Got this for my art classroom so that students could enjoy the beauty of bugs as well as practice with color blending and use of metallic colored pencils.
